IN MEMORIAM

In remembrance of our dear husband and daddy, Wesley Melvin Franklin, who departed this life three years ago, April 2, 1952.

In a little country church yard
Just a few miles away,
Lies the body of a dear one,
Who has gone from us to stay.

He is gone but not forgotten,
And as dawns another year,
In our lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of him are always near.

His smiling face we shall see no more,
While here on earth we stay,
But we hope to meet him face to face,
With Jesus some sweet day.

Sometimes it's hard to understand
Why some things have to be,
But in His wisdom God has planned
Beyond our power to see.

—Sadly missed by
Wife, Son and Daughter.

Court Orders Mental Tests For Mayberry

The Circuit Court of Appomattox County has ordered a psychiatric examination of Frank Mayberry, 48, accused of the slaying of two men on Feb. 25. This test will delay trial of the accused. It is understood that Mayberry has been taken to Richmond for the examination by a state penitentiary psychiatrist. If he is adjudged sane by the Richmond psychiatrist, he is slated to stand trial here May 20.

Mayberry was brought here from the Farmville jail Tuesday for a grand jury hearing, as the April term of the Circuit Court opened. The grand jury returned indictments charging him with the slaying of his brother-in-law, Jack Tucker, Evergreen, and of Dr. David A. Christian, III, popular local physician who went to the Tucker home to render medical aid.

The court has agreed to a defense request for an -out-of-county jury. It is understood that a jury from Cumberland County will be used.

George Abbitt Jr. and W. M. Abbitt represent the commonwealth in the case, and the court named W. F. Watkins, Jr. and J. B. Wall, Jr., of Farmville, to represent Mayberry.

A preliminary hearing was held here last Friday and the case was sent on to the grand jury by Trial Justice C. P. Crawley.

In another murder case, tried yesterday, Julian Jones, 58, Stonewall, was acquitted by a jury of a first degree murder charge resulting from the fatal shooting of William C. Hackett, 46, of Pamplin, last Christmas Eve. The jury deliberated twenty minutes and returned a not guilty verdict.

Fund Comm. Met Last Night

A meeting was held last night of the committee recently formed to establish a Dr. David A. Christian III Memorial. The committee announced that about $3,000 in cash and pledges, has been raised, with a goal of $20,000. A large committee of volunteer workers is now making a canvass to raise the funds. Contributions may be mailed to The D. A. Christian III Memorial Fund, Box 477, Appomattox or may be given to W. C. Dudley, treasurer of the fund.

Blueprints for the building are in process of being prepared, and are being donated locally.

Beginning Monday a "Memorial Quarter" drive will begin in all the public schools of the county.

The next meeting of the committee will be held Wednesday, April 20, 8:00 P. M. at the Legion Hall.

The Memorial board of directors is composed of: J. W. Childers, Dr. C. G. O'Brien, C. D. Lewis, Jr.; Mrs. Richard Williams and Floyd W. Fleshman.

The Solicitation Committee consists of the following:

Senator C. T. Moses Announces As Candidate For Re-Election

Chas. T. Moses, veteran State Senator, today announced that he is a candidate for re-election to represent the Eleventh Senatorial District. This District includes the counties of Amelia, Amherst, Appomattox, Buckingham, Cumberland, Nelson and Powhatan, having been shuffled in the last legislative redistricting with Charlotte County dropped and Amherst, Nelson, Amelia and Powhatan added.

Senator Moses was elected in 1934, to succeed the late Samuel L. Ferguson, of Appomattox. His 20 years of service has moved him to seniority positions in the Senate. He is Chairman of the powerful Privileges and Elections Committee and ranking Democrat on Roads and Internal Navigation and Agricul ture. He is also a member of the Printing Committee and the Committee on Cities, Counties and Towns.

A staunch advocate of better schools, public health and improved roads, Mr. Moses has been a leader in the enactment of progressive legislation. Representing a predominantly rural district, he has fought for better secondary roads. In announcing his candidacy he stated that he would "use my past record as a standard" and welcomed the advice and council of his constituents.

Senator Moses has filed his candidacy with Floyd Yates, District Democratic Chairman, and paid his filing fees in the seven counties of the District. As the deadline for filing is less than a week away and no other candidate has filed, it is held certain that he will have no opposition in the July 12 Primary.

Principal H. E. Kerr will be the master of ceremonies for the dedication, and an address will be made by Dr. Harold K. Jack, State Supervisor of Health and Education for the State Board of Education.

It was ninety years ago Saturday that the dying gasps of the Confederacy rolled up the James River from fallen Richmond, and the remnant of the Army of Northern Virginia, under the matchless Robert E. Lee, found peace at Old Appomattox Court House by reaching honorable terms with the general Ulysses S. Grant.

April 9, 1865 to April 9, 1955, chronicles a saga of national history and the honorable peace at Appomattox is the cornerstone under a near century of fabulous progress and prosperity for a re-united nation.

Little or no observance is planned here for the 90th anniversary. Virginians and all Southerners are none too proud of the word "Surrender." But "peace" is a magic word in a war-weary world and Appomattox is happy to welcome the visitors who flock here from all the nation to see the shrines of the final moments of America's great War Between the States.

In recent weeks, timed with the 90th anniversary, Appomattox has received several outstanding publicity features. The current issue of the Readers Digest features an excellent article on Appomattox, by Virginius Dabney, of Richmond. In last Sunday's Baltimore Sun, one of the nation's top daily papers, a full page illustrated feature was given to an article under the heading, "Rebuilding Appomattox."

And the current issue of "The Iron Worker,"—magazine of Lynchburg Foundry, features many pages of pictures and a complete write-up of the Appomattox Story.

These new publicity items are sure to increase interest in the Restoration of Old Appomattox Court House and bring in more visitors.

Likewise, this will give momentum to plans for a great 100th anniversary observance here in 1965.

Appomattox today shows its true cavalier hospitality by "under-commercializing" its great tourist attraction. Nearly 100,000 people a year come here to see the battlefield, the famous McLean House and other shrines on the spot where Lee and Grant made peace for their armies on Palm Sunday 90 years ago. Much of this area has now been restored by the National Park Service.

Through the final decades of the 1800's, and the early years of the 1900's, the feeling existed that perhaps "something should be done" at Appomattox Court House. But the old court house burned in 1892, and the McLean House was dismembered and the village became a desolate place. Perhaps the gods of fortune intended it that way, in order to preserve the authentic vestiges of a true shrine for eventual restoration.

But as the second quarter of the twentieth century began, the advisability of memorializing Appomattox was on the agenda of many agencies of government and civic enterprise.

One of the prominent projects was to build a great monument to peace at Appomattox. A 200 foot monument was proposed and an artist's sketch of the design actually chosen is pictured in this paper today. It shows two shafts, representing the North and South, with a single shaft in the background to represent the re-united nation. It was planned to build this stately monument in the Old Court House Circle.

But at the last moment, the plans went into collision with a new concept of what should be done at Appomattox—Restoration. The project of the Rockefellers at historic Williamsburg commanded attention and convinced many people that a restoration was better than a monument.

And so, in the 1930's, the Federal Government acquired some 900 acres of land and undertook a long-range project of returning Appomattox to its 1865 appearance.

To date something over $275,000 has been spent on the restoration. It is a small sum in comparison with the some forty million dollars spent at Williamsburg. But the results have been most satisfactory, and it is generally agreed that a deadline of April 9, 1965 will find the entire project completed.

A community which has waited patiently for 90 years, can doubtless ride out another ten. But is is surely the hope of a growing number of people that a grateful nation will expedite the rebuilding of the Old Court House, and complete in every detail the Appomattox project.
